Allies Say Hitler's Blitzkrieg Suffers Reversal

Stubborn Dutch, Belgian Armies Resist Germans

Berlin Declares 24 Civilians Killed In Town Of Freiburg, And Promises That Retaliation Will Be Five-Fold

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

The first bolt of their lightning war apparently spent against the wall of Belgo-Dutch resistance, the Nazi forces invading the lowlands lashed out at dawn today with a violent air bombardment of Amsterdam.

As more Allied troops drove forward toward the Dutch and Belgian frontiers and while all forces opposing Adolf Hitler's latest blitzkrieg claimed stunning victories over the Nazi air force, German bombers swept over Amsterdam in two waves.

The first bombing detachment rocketed out of the eastern sky at dawn and for 25 minutes dropped its cargo. The attack was followed by another within a few minutes.

Pushing toward the frontiers with fresh troops and additional equipment, the British are being harried by German machine-gunning of roads and communication lines, the British communiqué said today. From the tone of the official statement, the German attempts to repulse the reinforcements seemed to be harrying the troops, but nothing more.

Belgium's resistance still appeared to be checking the invading Nazi legions.

The Dutch claim to have brought down 114 German planes, and in London an air ministry communiqué told a dramatic story of the destruction of at least 60 German troop transport planes in Holland.

German Towns Bombed

In Berlin, an official German announcement charged that enemy planes, bombing the town of Freiburg, killed 24 civilians. The announcement promised five-fold retaliation against the Allies.

Apparently, the aerial phases of the Nazi blitzkrieg tactics were not working out as smoothly as they did in Poland.

The stubborn Dutch infantry in Rotterdam and elsewhere apparently had thwarted the favorite blitzkrieg strategy of landing parachute troops behind the lines. In Rotterdam alone, according to the London Daily Mail, Dutch soldiers wiped out or forced to surrender a detachment of 400 parachutists.

German bombers droned over Paris for 45 minutes at dawn, and three separate alarms were sounded, but no bombs were dropped.

While the Fuehrer was admittedly locked in a death struggle "for the fate of the German people for the next 1,000 years" and while all Belgium rattled with gunfire, the German ambassador to Belgium—V. Von Bulow-Schwante—was en route to Paris with his embassy staff. From Paris, he will probably return via Switzerland to Berlin.

From Amsterdam:

Nazi Germany's attempted blitzkrieg occupation of the Netherlands ended in failure today when Dutch troops aided by the British Royal Air Force recaptured the Rotterdam airport, Holland's last base remaining in German hands.

At the same time, a swift and effective Dutch counter-attack completely annihilated the Germans who had landed by plane, parachute and flat-bottomed boat on the island of Dordrecht southeast of Rotterdam.

The Dutch themselves lost 1,000 men in this battle, probably the bloodiest of the war to date, but emerged completely victorious, with Rotterdam again safe and Germany's foothold in western Holland loosened.

From Brussels:

Belgium's valiant troops still appeared to be holding back the invading Nazi legions today, according to latest reports reaching Brussels.

According to these advices, the Belgian defense forces are still holding their "lines of destruction" considerably in advance of the main Belgian lines of defense.

German warplanes were extremely active over both Belgium and Holland, however.

According to the Brussels radio, nine Junkers planes were sighted over Namur shortly after 5 a. m.

They were followed some time later by groups of 10 and 21 Messerschmidt fighting planes. Twenty-one Dornier planes were sighted over another Belgian town.

From London:

British aerial attacks which destroyed at least 60 German troop transport planes in Holland were announced by the British air ministry today as advices from Amsterdam indicated Dutch troops were holding up the Nazi military machine.

According to the air ministry, Royal Air Force planes bombed and

PICKAWAY RED CROSS TO SEEK WAR AID FUND

Chapter's Quota Determined At $2,000; Leist Asks Contributions

The Pickaway County Red Cross started a campaign Saturday to collect $2,000 which will go into the $10,000,000 collection being made by the National Red Cross to relieve suffering in Europe's new war theatre, the heretofore neutral countries of Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

Carl C. Leist, chairman of the Pickaway County chapter, Red Cross, received a telegram Saturday from Norman H. Davis, national chairman, asking that $2,000 be raised locally to be added to the national fund.

Davis' telegram follows:

"With the invasion of Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, the war has entered a phase which will inevitably and at once bring widespread and appalling suffering to millions of helpless men, women and children. In order to inaugurate widespread relief measures the American Red Cross is at once launching a campaign for a minimum war relief fund of $10,000,000. Your chapter quota is $2,000. Please at once mobilize the entire leadership of your chapter and community in order that your quota may be raised and exceeded without delay. Chapters may retain 15 percent of collections to cover their local war relief expenses. Letter of instructions follows."

"Norman H. Davis" The chairman said that he will receive contributions at his office, either personally or by mail pending further word from the Red Cross.

President Sees Newest Nazi Thrust As Menace To American Republics

WASHINGTON, May 11—President Roosevelt today accepted Germany's smashing thrust at Europe's low countries as "a definite challenge" to the Western Hemisphere's security while Congress suddenly awoke to imperative need for immediate modernization and expansion of America's fighting machine.

"Shocked and angered" by Nazi invasion of Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, the President has issued a clarion call to the other 20 American republics to stand ready to defend themselves against the "modern conquerors" who seek to "enlarge their wild dream to encompass the earth's surface."

Surrounded by diplomatic advisers, the President studied every new move in the New American campaign, but gave no hint when he would issue the expected proclamation extending the Neutrality Act to the low countries. They are already included in the "combat zones" and a Neutrality Act proclamation simply would make the "cash and carry" provisions of the law applicable to them.

Weapon Shortage Feared

Meanwhile, as German planes and shock troops sank their fangs into three more neutral countries, Democrats and Republicans alike on Capitol Hill became acutely conscious that the United States is confronted with an appalling shortage of modern weapons to withstand a blitzkrieg of the 1940 type.

It was obvious from comments on both sides of Congress there would be an insistent demand to pour more money into the national defense—and rush the job.

In common with Mr. Roosevelt, who termed himself "a pacifist," the great majority of legislators still shied violently from the

GRAND MANAGER HURT IN MISHAP; FUMES EXPLODE

Hal Bennett, Pinckney Street, manager of the Grand Theatre, was burned painfully on the left hand and the left side of his neck at 9 a. m. Saturday when gas exploded in the theatre office. The injuries were reported to be first degree burns by Dr. E. L. Montgomery who treated him.

The accident happened, Bennett said, when he struck a match to light a stove. The flame in the stove had apparently not been turned completely out Friday night when employees left the theatre.

FLEET IN WEST FINDS IT NEEDS MORE ACTIVITY

HONOLULU, May 11—United States naval officers, saying they were "alert for any new orders we may receive," trimmed ships today for a continuation of the fleet's 1940 war games in mid-Pacific.

As the fighting craft of the armada prepared to leave tomorrow for Lahaina Roads, aides of Admiral James O. Richardson, commander-in-chief, said the spread of the European war to the lowlands would not alter maneuver plans.

Navy people also said they knew of no instructions for dispatching any units of the fleet to strengthen the American Asiatic patrol, on guard in waters adjacent to the much discussed Netherlands East Indies.

Bluejackets ended their shore leave in Honolulu and boarded the battleships, heavy cruisers and plane carriers in Pearl Harbor, for the further training requested by the high command.

It was reported the recent stringent war games convinced many officers that the fleet is "green" and in need of additional exercise immediately. This would come as no surprise to veteran sea fighters because of the rapid expansion of the fleet.

KEATON YOUTH WINS PICKAWAY MARBLE MATCH

Charles Keaton, 13-year-old High Street school pupil, Saturday, was declared Pickaway County champion after winning a WPA recreation department competition staged on the tennis courts in Park Place. The Keaton youth who will represent Pickaway County in state competition at Columbus received a $5 prize and four cartons of Coca Cola from Frank A. Lynch of the Coca Cola Bottling Works, who sponsored the competition.

Keaton defeated Eugene Burgoon of the Walnut Street school, 7 to 5, in the final game. Burgoon was given seven cartons of Coca Cola.

The other 12 boys in the finals were given two cartons of Coca Cola each.

NEED FOR 50,000 PILOTS DECLARED BY U. S. SOLO

WASHINGTON, May 11—Immediate launching of a program for the training of 50,000 air pilots as a defense measure was proposed today by Rep. J. Buell Snyder (D. Pa.), chairman of the house appropriations army subcommittee.

"We should have a three-year program and enlist young men in the army for this purpose," said Snyder.

BRITISH PRESS STANDS BEHIND NEW MINISTER

Churchill's New Cabinet Eagerly Awaited; Lloyd George To Have Part

LONDON, May 11—The entire British press threw the weight of its confidence and optimism today behind Britain's new minister, Winston Churchill, as a new cabinet weaving all factions into a constructive ruling unit was eagerly awaited.

In striking contrast to the rancor and criticism of the recent weeks, the newspapers gave unanimous praise to King George VI for his selection of the vigorous former first lord of the admiralty to succeed Europe's "man of appeasement," 71-year-old Neville Chamberlain.

All cabinet ministers, in accordance with Churchill's first orders after he assumed his post, stood by while Churchill set about forging a new "national concentration" government.

An entire new approach to prosecution of the war was expected in view of Churchill's staunch advocacy of a total war against totalitarian power.

OVER HERE next Tuesday, May 14, America is requesting its people to assemble at the polls to shoulder a lead pencil and vote their choice for national, state and county offices.

OVER THERE next Tuesday the program is different. The heads of various governments will compel their people to shoulder arms and shoot to kill. How thankful they would be for our privilege of voting instead of their job of shooting and suffering. Every good American should show his gratitude and intelligence and be willing to vote. No good American should be too busy to take interest in the primaries. You owe your government, your candidates and yourselves this support as you never have before.

This primary next Tuesday will cost the taxpayers millions of dollars and when you fail to respond it is a waste of money

With this in mind, it should be plain to all that your honest choice of candidates is best for you, your party and your country for we must abide by your judgment to win or lose with the nominated candidates at the election next November.

Stubborn Dutch, Belgian Armies Resist Germans

destroyed the German planes at the Rotterdam airport and on a beach near The Hague.

The raids were carried out so quickly after the Germans had occupied the landing grounds that the Germans had no time to establish anti-aircraft defenses.

At the same time a war office communique announced:

"Leading elements of the British Expeditionary Force in cooperation with the French army have entered Belgium. They were accorded a great welcome by the Belgian people."

From Paris:

Halted on the lowland borders by stubborn Allied resistance and ejected from hard-won interior positions, the German army consolidated its limitless forces on the Western Front for a major battle today.

While Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler took his blitzkrieg to the air again in a series of heavy bombing attacks on French, Belgian and Dutch airports and open towns, reports flooding into Paris told of important initial success for the Allies on land.

The Germans still hold parts of Holland along the eastern fringe of that country. But counter-attacks by the Dutch army, aided by the British Royal Air Force, succeeded in dislodging them from three important bases.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Dutch legation in London announced that the Germans had been thrown out of the Rotterdam airport, the last important Dutch air base they still held. This same announcement said that the island of Dordrecht to the South was retaken, with 1,000 Dutch lives lost and the German contingent wiped out in its entirety.)

From Berlin:

Germany's drive toward the channelports through Holland and Belgium is gouging deep slices out of the low countries, according to indications in Berlin today.

But the German high command weighed every word before releasing any details to frustrate the possibility that the Allies might benefit from anything revealed by the press and radio.

Authoritative German military quarters admitted that "big doings" were in progress everywhere, but indicated that prospects of revealing their nature today were limited.

Details are not expected to be forthcoming until the lines of each main maneuver of the operating armies is near the safety point.

It was assumed the Germans are using again their favorite pincer tactics and circumventing the more strongly fortified points wherever possible while dashing ahead to cut off the enemy from the rear.

At the same time, it was reported, the German air force, supported by parachute and airplane transport detachments, is seizing airports and smashing communications wherever possible.

It was believed that formidable fighting is now in progress at many points, but apparently not along the Siegfried Line proper.

PRESIDENT SEES MENACE TO U. S.

thought this country might become embroiled in Europe's war. There were many, however, who concurred with the veteran Senator Glass (D) Va., who said:

"This country should immediately render the Allies every possible assistance short of sending an expeditionary force abroad."

Officials carefully guarded plans for the U. S. battle fleet, now stationed at Hawaii with a watchful eye on the Dutch East Indies. American insistence that Japan maintain the status quo in the Pacific and keep hands off the oil-rich Dutch possessions had nothing to do with an extension of "maneuvers" in the vicinity of Honolulu, the navy high command insisted.

President Roosevelt keynoted the administration's attitude toward ever-expanding Nazi aggression before an enthusiastic audience comprising the eighth American Scientific Congress last night.

GRID COACH AT WILMINGTON TO SELL INSURANCE

WILMINGTON, May 11—Two members of the Wilmington High School faculty handed their resignations to Superintendent H. W. Hodson Friday. They are Amos Smith, head coach at Wilmington for 10 years, and Fred Murphy, commercial teacher and tennis coach for six years.

During his 10 years as coach, Smith's football teams have won 54 games, lost 26 and tied 12. He plans to accept a position as district supervisor for an insurance company.

Murphy will manage farms owned by his father-in-law, F. M. Harlan.

NEW YORK'S BIG FAIR OPENS WITH FUN IT'S KEYNOTE

NEW YORK, May 11—With the sky overhead filled with planes zooming and diving, Manhattan's children were "evacuated" today to Flushing Meadows faced only with the danger of eating too many hot dogs or drinking too much soda pop.

This was the day the New York World's Fair of 1940 opened its gates, a warm sunny day in a nation at peace. Through the gates streamed happy, laughing children and adults who sobered only when a lazy breeze stirred the banners of Czechoslovakia, Denmark, and Norway, little nations trapped and vanished or vanishing in the maelstrom of war.

A fair for all the world but there were nations which did not choose to come, and there were flags and buildings which bravely stood for nations which are no more.

Last year they dedicated the fair to "Peace and Democracy". That would have been a hollow gesture this year toward the world which knows no peace. "Let's have fun," they say this year, "and thank God we can still have fun in America."

TO FELLOW DEMOCRATS

At this time I wish to thank all for the support and courtesies shown me in my campaign for Pickaway County Sheriff.

If I am fortunate to defeat Mr. Radcliff at the Primaries I will appreciate the honor and promise to administer and maintain the same high standard of Efficiency of the present official when I am elected. If I should be defeated I will still be thankful for the support and opportunities afforded me to run for the office and promise to remain a loyal Democrat.

CONGRESSIONAL RACE

Being more desirous of REPUBLICAN SUCCESS in November than I am in my personal ambitions, I hereby voluntarily withdraw from the Primary Campaign as a Candidate for Representative in Congress in the Eleventh Congressional District.

I earnestly request my many friends and loyal co-workers to disregard my name on the ballot and to do their utmost to nominate a BONAFIDE REPUBLICAN whose ELECTION in November is ASSURED.

The Court of Appeals

Voters who use the Republican ballot in the primary election May 14 will have an important selection to make—a candidate for judge of the court of appeals in the 15-county district which includes Scioto county.

Inasmuch as there is no candidate for this office on the Democratic ticket, the probability is that the Republican nominee chosen 10 days hence will be the elected judge next November.

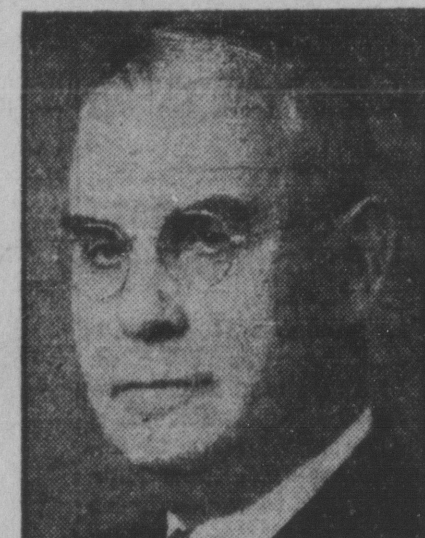

The appeals court, in the majority of cases, is the court of last resort in criminal and civil actions, because only a small percentage of cases are carried higher to the state supreme court. Thus its importance cannot be underestimated, and the men who occupy its bench should be the best-qualified lawyers available.

Among the three candidates for the position, The Times believes the outstanding one to be Judge W. R. White of Gallipolis. Judge White, during nearly two decades on the Gallia county common pleas bench, has made a reputation as one of southern Ohio's outstanding judges. He is the only candidate who has had judicial experience—a qualification which is a distinct attribute. A lawyer who has had previous experience in the lower courts naturally is more fitted for competent service on a higher bench.

Judge White's qualifications should recommend him highly to the men and women who vote the Republican ticket on May 14.

destroyed the German planes at the Rotterdam airport and on a beach near The Hague.

The raids were carried out so quickly after the Germans had occupied the landing grounds that the Germans had no time to establish anti-aircraft defenses.

At the same time a war office communique announced:

"Leading elements of the British Expeditionary Force in cooperation with the French army have entered Belgium. They were accorded a great welcome by the Belgian people."

From Paris:

Halted on the lowland borders by stubborn Allied resistance and ejected from hard-won interior positions, the German army consolidated its limitless forces on the Western Front for a major battle today.

While Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler took his blitzkrieg to the air again in a series of heavy bombing attacks on French, Belgian and Dutch airports and open towns, reports flooding into Paris told of important initial success for the Allies on land.

The Germans still hold parts of Holland along the eastern fringe of that country. But counter-attacks by the Dutch army, aided by the British Royal Air Force, succeeded in dislodging them from three important bases.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Dutch legation in London announced that the Germans had been thrown out of the Rotterdam airport, the last important Dutch air base they still held. This same announcement said that the island of Dordrecht to the South was retaken, with 1,000 Dutch lives lost and the German contingent wiped out in its entirety.)

From Berlin:

Germany's drive toward the channelports through Holland and Belgium is gouging deep slices out of the low countries, according to indications in Berlin today.

But the German high command weighed every word before releasing any details to frustrate the possibility that the Allies might benefit from anything revealed by the press and radio.

Authoritative German military quarters admitted that "big doings" were in progress everywhere, but indicated that prospects of revealing their nature today were limited.

Details are not expected to be forthcoming until the lines of each main maneuver of the operating armies is near the safety point.

It was assumed the Germans are using again their favorite pincer tactics and circumventing the more strongly fortified points wherever possible while dashing ahead to cut off the enemy from the rear.

At the same time, it was reported, the German air force, supported by parachute and airplane transport detachments, is seizing airports and smashing communications wherever possible.

It was believed that formidable fighting is now in progress at many points, but apparently not along the Seldfried Line proper.

PRESIDENT SEES MENACE TO U. S.

thought this country might become embroiled in Europe's war. There were many, however, who concurred with the veteran Senator Glass (D) Va., who said:

"This country should immediately render the Allies every possible assistance short of sending an expeditionary force abroad."

Officials carefully guarded plans for the U. S. battle fleet, now stationed at Hawaii with a watchful eye on the Dutch East Indies. American insistence that Japan maintain the status quo in the Pacific and keep hands off the oil-rich Dutch possessions had nothing to do with an extension of "maneuvers" in the vicinity of Honolulu, the navy high command insisted.

President Roosevelt keynoted the administration's attitude toward ever-expanding Nazi aggression before an enthusiastic audience comprising the eighth American Scientific Congress last night.

Not "Immune"

He warned that until all too recently too many citizens of the 21 American republics held the "mistaken idea" they enjoyed some "mythic immunity" from the aspirations of the totalitarian powers.

Evangelical Church Arranging Ohio Tour; 1840 Date Being Commemorated

Historical Party Comes To Circleville Next Friday

In commemoration of the first session of the Ohio Conference of the Evangelical Church, which was held May 13, 1840 in a barn on the farm owned at that time by Solomon Moyer, and located six miles north-east of Circleville, the Evangelical Church is observing a series of special services of note throughout Ohio.

Monday, the tour of the conference historical party will start at the Red Haw Church near Ashland, Ohio. Here is located the grave of the Rev. J. J. Koop, who was elected presiding elder of the Ohio Conference at the session of 1840. Services will be held in the afternoon and evening.

Tuesday, the party consisting of the Rev. R. B. Leedy, Napoleon, the Rev. H. V. Summers, Canton, the Rev. L. H. Naumann, Findlay, the Rev. W. L. Seith, Akron, the Rev. C. L. Allen, Fremont, the Rev. J. W. Heininger, Lorain, and the Rev. B. A. Stain, Columbus, will travel to Moline, Ohio, near Toledo where a combined centennial service and a concert by the conference ministers chorus will be held. Wednesday and Thursday services will be held by the group traveling over the territory covered by Bishop John Seybert who organized the conference. They will visit the graves of Bishop Seybert located at Flat Rock and of the Rev. John Erb, who was an early pioneer preacher of the denomination, located at Bettsville. Special services will be held in the evenings at Greensprings and at Findlay.

Friday, the party will come to Circleville where at 7:30 p. m. at the St. Paul Evangelical Church east of Circleville, a service will be held. It was at this place, that Bishop Seybert preached and conducted the communion service immediately preceding the conference in 1840. At this service on Friday evening the Rev. R. B. Leedy of Napoleon will speak. The Rev. L. H. Nauman will preach from the same texts as those used by Bishop Seybert 100 years ago.

On Sunday morning the tour party will divide and occupy the various Evangelical pulpits of Circleville, Lancaster, Stoutsville, Cedar Hill, Baltimore and New Zion churches.

On Sunday afternoon May 19, the final rally and centennial service will be held at 2 p. m. on the farm originally owned by Solomon Moyer. At present Alva Hanley resides on the farm, four miles north-east of Circleville and two miles west of Ringgold. Here the Rev. C. L. Evangelical Church Arranging Ohio Tour; 1840 Date Being Commemorated

Historical Party Comes To Circleville Next Friday

In commemoration of the first session of the Ohio Conference of the Evangelical Church, which was held May 13, 1840 in a barn on the farm owned at that time by Solomon Moyer, and located six miles north-east of Circleville, the Evangelical Church is observing a series of special services of note throughout Ohio.

Monday, the tour of the conference historical party will start at the Red Haw Church near Ashland, Ohio. Here is located the grave of the Rev. J. J. Koop, who was elected presiding elder of the Ohio Conference at the session of 1840. Services will be held in the afternoon and evening.

Tuesday, the party consisting of the Rev. R. B. Leedy, Napoleon, the Rev. H. V. Summers, Canton, the Rev. L. H. Naumann, Findlay, the Rev. W. L. Seith, Akron, the Rev. J. W. Heininger, Lorain, and the Rev. B. A. Stain, Columbus, will travel to Moline, Ohio, near Toledo where a combined centennial service and a concert by the conference ministers chorus will be held. Wednesday and Thursday services will be held by the group traveling over the territory covered by Bishop John Seybert who organized the conference. They will visit the graves of Bishop Seybert located at Flat Rock and of the Rev. John Erb, who was an early pioneer preacher of the denomination, located at Bettsville. Special services will be held in the evenings at Greensprings and at Findlay.

Friday, the party will come to Circleville where at 7:30 p. m. at the St. Paul Evangelical Church east of Circleville, a service will be held. It was at this place, that Bishop Seybert preached and conducted the communion service immediately preceding the conference in 1840. At this service on Friday evening the Rev. R. B. Leedy of Napoleon will speak. The Rev. L. H. Nauman will preach from the same texts as those used by Bishop Seybert 100 years ago.

On Sunday morning the tour party will divide and occupy the various Evangelical pulpits of Circleville, Lancaster, Stoutsville, Cedar Hill, Baltimore and New Zion churches.

On Sunday afternoon May 19, the final rally and centennial service will be held at 2 p. m. on the farm originally owned by Solomon Moyer. At present Alva Hanley resides on the farm, four miles north-east of Circleville and two miles west of Ringgold. Here the Rev. C. L. Allen of Fremont will bring a special message on "Our Present Missionary Outlook" and the Rev. W. L. Seith of Akron will preach from the texts used by Bishop Seybert on the same spot on Sunday May 17, 1840. To all services the public is invited and cordially welcomed.

Fighting Through Doubt to Faith

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Habakkuk

"O Lord, how long shall I cry, and Thou wilt not hear! Even cry out unto Thee of violence, and Thou wilt not save?"

"Their horses also are swifter than the leopards, and are more fierce than the evening wolves," said of the Chaldeans.

"I will stand upon my watch, and set me upon the tower, and will watch to see what He will say unto me."

"But the Lord is in His holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before Him." (GOLDEN TEXT—Hab. 2:4)

LAURELVILLE

O. B. Mowery of Lancaster, a former resident here, was honor guest at a birthday party given in his honor, Sunday at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr.
and Mrs. George Wharton of Allen Street Lancaster. The actual date was May 4 but the celebration was held Sunday.

A group of relatives arrived
Sunday with well filled lunch baskets to enjoy the day socially.
Guests were Mrs. Grace Spangler,
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reid and sons,
Fred, Ned and Jack, Mr. and Mrs.
H. M. Strobe, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hedges and son, Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Ort Landman of Columbus
Mrs. Minnie Darton of Tarleton, and daughter, Joyce Ann of Laurelville, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Mowery and Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton of Lancaster the hosts.

The members of the dinner Bridge Club were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cox of Main Street Tuesday evening.

After the dinner the group enjoyed games of bridge with Mrs.
Amy Grattidge and Wayne Strous
winning high scores, and Mrs.
Mabel Bowers and Dr. Grattidge
winning low scores.

The Young Peoples class of the U. B. Church filled the various offices of the Sunday School and conducted the school Sunday morning. The Young People's Class takes charge of the school
every year in observance of Youth's Day.

The Sophomore class of the local school enjoyed a weiner roast on the school house hill, Friday evening with approximately 150 in attendance. Guests at the party were Mr. and Mrs. George Bushnell, Harold Archer, Claude Chil-
cote, Miss Virginia Brightwell, Miss Bernice Taylor and Miss Marilla Thomas.

After the weiner roast a social hour of games and contests were enjoyed in the Community Hall.

RISING INCOME

IT is encouraging to learn that our national income for the first quarter of this year was the highest since 1930, being $17,920,000,000, against $16,315,000,000
last year.

This would mean nearly $72,000,000-000 for the present calendar year if the same rate of income were sustained. It would still be about $8,000,000,000 short of the pre-depression record, and with our added population there should be several millions added to that in order to demonstrate real prosperity. Still, the figures are encouraging, and some authorities
think war business may raise present expectations for this year.

GRATITUDE

IT has been said that nations are ungrateful, but it is certainly not true of Finland. That stricken little power came back into the news again for a moment
the other day, through an item from Stockholm.

Finland, said the dispatch, though grievously stricken by her war with Russia, had paused in her reconstruction to send supplies and more than $500,000 cash
to help Norway in its distress.

Finland still has distress enough of her own, with her dead and wounded and her hundreds of thousands of refugees and her demolished cities. But she wanted to help the Norwegians now because they had helped her when she was in their plight.
At a time when we tend to lose faith in human nature, here is something that restores it.

WHAT INSTEAD OF WAR?

A GROUP of Protestant clergymen in the East united recently in a pledge to
"have no part in any war."

"War itself is the enemy which bids fair to destroy us all alike, to deprive us
of all of our democratic liberties," they said in a formal statement. "As an instrument of national policy, war settles no issues in the moral realm, is futile in the political, wasteful and suicidal in the economic, and in the religious a denial of God and of the life and teaching of His Son.

"We profoundly believe that the end
forever inheres within the means! that the means employed by war are essentially evil; that the good needs no aid of that evil to establish its ultimate victory; that love needs no abetting by hate; that God
has not come to such a pass as to require violence for the realization of any ideal that He inspires.

"We believe that the time has come
when arbitrament by war must be abolished, as ancient modes of slavery and codes of dueling were abolished; that it is an out-moded survival of barbarism and superstition, and that the chain of evil
which holds us to it, with all its new and vicious terrors, can and must be broken
where we are.

Those are honestly spoken words and they are echoed in many hearts. But they leave untold the story of how they may

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

BRASS RING TO ADMIRAL TAUSSIG

WASHINGTON—At Annapolis, where midshipman put plebes through a constant cross-fire of hazing, one of the stock questions fired at a youngster is:
"Mr. Jones, what did Admiral Taussig
say?"

And the first-year man clicks his heels
and snaps back the traditional Annapolis
answer: "Sir, we are now ready!"

This refers not to Rear Admiral Joseph
K. Taussig's recent and startling prediction that war between the United States and Japan was inevitable, but to a statement he made to the British during the World War which has become a naval classic.

Taussig was in command of a destroyer squadron which arrived in Ireland
shortly after the United States entered the war. Upon his arrival, the British asked how soon his ships could proceed to the North Sea for submarine duty. Taussig
and his men had just crossed a stormy Atlantic, and the British expected they would require at least a week to get shipshape.
But Taussig's reply was approximately the one now quoted by Annapolis plebes.
(Actually he said he would need 24 hours to take on oil and fresh water.)

This gives one sidelight on the man who astounded the American public with his frankness in predicted war with Japan.

REPUBLICAN AMMUNITION

That prediction has now been discussed and editorialized from coast to coast and from beer-parlor to parlor. But there are several backstage factors which have not been discussed except in hush-hush groups of naval officers when they get together.

One of these is the mysterious manner
in which Admiral Taussig happened to be called to testify before the Senate Naval Affairs Committee.

The other is that no love has been lost
between the President and Admiral Taussig. This dates back to a row they had when Roosevelt was Assistant Secretary of the Navy. So there is some suspicion—perhaps unjustified—that Taussig might have made his belligerent statement just
at a time when it was sure to win votes
for the Republicans.

Regarding the first of these, it is not generally known that Admiral Taussig's
name was suggested to the Senate committee by vigorous peace critics of the President, specifically by Mauritz Hallgren.
He acted for the National Peace Conference, led by Oswald Garrison Villard, Frederick Libby and Dorothy Detzer.

Furthermore, the Senate Naval Affairs Committee got the impression from peace
leaders that the Admiral's testimony would be unfriendly to the Administration.

If they expected Taussig to rap his big Navy program, however, they were 100 percent mistaken. He was vigorously for
it. But if they wanted to pin a belligerent Far Eastern policy on Roosevelt, they got their wish. For undoubtedly Taussig's prediction of war with Japan plays into Republican hands.

be made effective, now, in any of the countries at war or threatened by war.
Turning the other cheek may be the ultimate answer, but will the world accept that method in this generation?

Remember a quaint document called the "Kellogg Pact" in which all the nations agreed never to fight any more?

More and more, Europe drifts into a state which a certain U. S. Senator is said to call "choss", but which old-fashioned people pronounce "kay-os."

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE... Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a snappy morning, but a glorious one. Noted that wrens continue shunning the bird house that I built with much pride. Thought any bird would be glad to have it for a domicile, but something is wrong. They won't even look at it. Well, it looks pretty there atop the rose trellis.

No one would have guessed
the fact, but Bill Kochheiser has taken to funeral orating. I would have appreciated being present when Bill raved back
and delivered those weighty words. Seems as though his neighborhood's pet squirrel met with a traffic accident. His body was found in the street.
Children gathered and decided that a funeral must be held.

All arrangements were completed except the "preacher." About that time Bill appeared on the scene and was pressed into service. Glad it was Bill and not me, for I haven't the vagu-est idea of what could or should be said over the body of a squirrel except, "Yes, I'll take a second helping."

All his friends laughed when Dick Simkins bought that fine
new casting rod and reel a few days ago. But Dick with nonchalance went to the banks of Darby Creek and cast into the waters. Then he yanked out a channel cat that weighed two and one-half pounds.

Ministers hereabouts have their work cut out for them over
this week end, helping pray
away their cussing sins of many of their church members. Or maybe it isn't too much of a sin to cuss out Adolph and his cohorts.

In the evening did hear the President take some hide off
the Germans and heard with pleasure his promise that this nation will not be taken unaware or unprepared, that we will arm to meet any emergency. I am in favor of that, the entire distance. With that insane paper hanger riding high in Europe there is no telling the next direction of his ambition.
If Adolph ever decides to come over here I would regard it as the highest possible honor to be a member of the reception committee, and do everything possible to assure his extreme discomfort. I don't like that chap at all, at all. Nor does anyone else I have talked to recently.

friends of yours."

DIET AND HEALTH

How Body Responds to Coffee Drinking

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE CONTROVERSY as to whether coffee is beneficial or harmful cannot be settled dogmatically. The active ingredient of coffee, caffeine, is a drug which is used in medicine for definite purposes.
It is a heart stimulant. It is useful in shock and the depression following surgical operations.

Its fundamental action is probably to increase the amount of blood put out by the heart, and it is this increased blood flow alone
which, going through the brain, induces mental stimulation. Caffeine does not harm the kidneys, al-

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest
only, and then only through his column.

though it is often thought by those who do not study carefully that the increased output of urine is harmful. The increased output of urine is due simply to the increase of blood flow through the kidneys. On the heart muscle, caffeine has a very beneficial action because it increases the nutrition of the heart muscle. For this reason it should be advocated as a regular beverage
in moderate quantities for middle-aged people.

Muscular Response Measured
Muscular response to coffee has been measured. It was found in normal young men, whose reaction to a given stimulus was measured beforehand, that after drinking coffee their reactions were two to six per cent more rapid.

Naturally for any drug, it must be said that if used immoderately,
the effect is bad. Just what constitutes immoderate intake is a question of temperament. People are not all made alike. Some have stable nervous systems; some are of the thick-skinned variety; others are temperamental, unstable, with nerves set on a hair trigger. For the last class, coffee has no proper use.

It may be put down as axiomatic
that if coffee makes you nervous it is not good for you.
Coffee should certainly not be given to children below the age of 10 years and I would even say 15 years. They do not need the stimulation. Their hearts and brains are young and active and coffee

would induce a false need for stimulation.

In High Blood Pressure

High blood pressure is no contraindication of coffee, according to Doctor Stieglitz. He believes that patients with high blood pressure
should be allowed coffee in the morning if they are used to it, although he forbids its use in the afternoon or evening.

Occasionally one finds a person
with an irritable heart who gets palpitation from the use of coffee.
Here, again, common sense would contra-indicate its use.

Coffee can be decaffeinated. The decaffeinated coffees contain a very small percentage of caffeine, so small as to be negligible. For people who are habituated to the taste
and smell of a cup of coffee, these beverages can be recommended.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. A.: "Does sleeping on the stomach cause any intestinal ailment? When I sleep otherwise, I get a headache."

Answer—No. No position for sleeping is any healthier than any other position. In days gone by people thought that it was dangerous

BILL AND Tempe Eyde rode be-

"hired girls" were driven home at 11 o'clock that evening. Bill slid down his half of the glass partition
so that he could turn around and talk to all of them.

"Thanks, chillum, for making it a swell party for Jeremy," he spoke heartily. "Now I can tell you what you were hired for, and you may see if you still want to work."
"Goody!" said Tempe.

"Hush, little bit. I am speaking to the grown ups." Bill had already slipped into a happy groove
of teasing Tempe, who was irresistibly little sisterish. "Now you say how Jeremy was—well, shy.
You girls are hired to help us make him normal. I mean, make him happy. That guy's smart, don't mistake that point. But he lives in moth balls and we've got to take him out and air him. Understand?"
"I thought he was quite nice,"
one of the girls put in.

"Sure. That's just the point.
He's too nice to let alone. Mr. Merrifield doesn't want him to ossify back in some library. And another thing—Mr. Merrifield is sponsoring a new Little Theater movement. Plays are going to be staged right there in The Oaks,
and you are all going to help. You
be on hand at 9 o'clock tomorrow

"For goodness sakes, do we get paid for coming to parties and play acting?" Tempe put in. "We came to get jobs, not for pleasure."
"You heard what he said—I'm your boss!" Bill pretended to roar.
"You'll do what I say and like it, see?" Then his tone changed. "It's work, never fear. Not what you expected, maybe, but good work.
Will—will $150 a month be enough? And expenses?"

Bill was hesitant about that. Mr.
Weems had conferred briefly with him about salaries, and ended up
by directing Bill to name the figure himself. But Bill had never hired anybody before. In a way he was scared.

"You mean—do you mean that much each? A month?" One girl was frankly incredulous, the other five were wide-eyed. One of them quite lost her poise. There on the back seat she suddenly burst into tears. "X—y—don't know—what
—it means to me!" she sobbed.

"When you've—been—h—hungry—"
Bill was utterly lost in such a situation. He had liked that girl,
a slender, large-eyed thing with obvious pride in her heart. But he had known nothing about her beyond surface facts.

As best he could he kidded her out of her tears now—the others
aided him with friendly counsel—
and when they reached her address
he made a special point of escorting her from the limousine and up
two flights of stairs to her room.

"All right for tonight?" he murmured, at her door. "This dollar is every cent I have on me at the moment, but tomorrow we can—"

"No," she said, squeezing his arm in sheer gratitude. "No, thanks. But I understand. I see a lot of things. I know you came looking for work, too. I had two big meals today at The Oaks.
Grand meals! I shall sleep tonight

great car, he felt as if he had achieved a certain maturity. A man can be mature at age 24, can't he?

It dawned on him that he had lived an extremely frivolous life
heretofore, despite certain money worries. Actually he had never suffered anything. Most of his troubles had been trivial, or imaginary.
A sense of confusion enveloped him now, too. This lovely girl who had known hunger—the others he had hired—Gayle Dixon, Jeremy, the dark Lola, little Tempe—"Christopher!" said he. "What a day! Life is certainly a mixed-up proposition."

What Bill Bailey still didn't know was that life as yet was only beginning its strange handling of him.

It was just after 11 o'clock next morning when Bill sat on a box in the vast reception room of The Oaks and tried to direct an actress
in her lines.

"No, no, Gayle," he was saying.
"You walk in as simply and easily
as you would enter any other room
in real life. Act naturally. Don't,
well, don't 'act.' You know what I mean! Now try it again, eh?"

At the end of the room, on a stage that had already been contrived there with the help of gardeners and other servants, Gayle Dixon slaved at the stage business of making an entrance. It was not easy.

The room was almost entirely bare, save for the stage and its makeshift properties and the box
on which Bill sat. Even so, it was an impressive room. It dated back to the bustle-and-bugger era, but a few touches of remodeling had linked it a bit with a more modern
day. The result was odd, but satisfactory on the whole. Windows were taller than two men, and as wide as doors, and impressively draped. Glass dangles swung on chandeliers so as to make rainbow glints like the tiny prisms they were. The floor was an oaken mirror; Bill had a boyish urge to skate
there.

By sliding back some doors that disappeared into walls, the size of this already large room could be doubled, and Mr. Weems had said that the twin halls used to constitute the ballroom for the Merrifield mansion years before, when there was life and gaiety at The Oaks.

"That's more like it," Bill was saying, presently. "Say, Gayle, you learn quickly, even if you don't have any experience at acting."

"Thank you. Maybe it's your expert directing."

"No. An actor either has the spark, or hasn't it. You have. I'd like to try some of the more difficult scenes also."

They kept at it apace, while the other six girls theoretically studied on a sunny verandah. The six had been given copies of the play and
were told to read it this morning,
preparatory to tryouts later in the day, but if they spent a deal of the time in gossiping about their extraordinary "work" here at The Oaks, surely nobody could blame them.

Meanwhile, too, Jeremy Tucker
had kept out of sight. In truth, that young gentleman had sat up rather late last night, even after Bill and Gayle had retired. He had been secretly elated at the little dinner party given for him. It was the first party in his honor that he could remember. He hadn't known how to conduct himself. He felt that he must have made a poor impression on people who could have been his friends. He did a great deal of thinking about it.

Today he somehow managed to neglect entirely his routine of archeological study. He had meant to delve farther into reports on findings in pre-historic mounds of Yucatan. But his mind wandered—a most unusual circumstance for him. Presently he probed through his grandfather's fine sets of encyclopedias and read such odd topics as "Conversation," "Etiquette,"
"The Art of Oratory," "Personality Development." He felt a little ashamed for thus wasting time.

Then, too, there had been a muffled pounding and nailing downstairs this morning, and that aroused his curiosity. He decided

RIISING INCOME

It is encouraging to learn that our national income for the first quarter of this year was the highest since 1930, being $17,920,000,000, against $16,315,000,000 last year.

This would mean nearly $72,000,000,000 for the present calendar year if the same rate of income were sustained. It would still be about $8,000,000,000 short of the pre-depression record, and with our added population there should be several millions added to that in order to demonstrate prosperity. Still, the figures are encouraging, and some authorities think war business may raise present expectations for this year.

GRATITUDE

It has been said that nations are ungrateful, but it is certainly not true of Finland. That stricken little power came back into the news again for a moment the other day, through an item from Stockholm.

Finland, said the dispatch, though grievously stricken by her war with Russia, had paused in her reconstruction to send supplies and more than $500,000 cash to help Norway in its distress.

Finland still has distress enough of her own, with her dead and wounded and her hundreds of thousands of refugees and her demolished cities. But she wanted to help the Norwegians now because they had helped her when she was in their plight. At a time when we tend to lose faith in human nature, here is something that restores it.

WHAT INSTEAD OF WAR?

A GROUP of Protestant clergymen in the East united recently in a pledge to "have no part in any war."

"War itself is the enemy which bids fair to destroy us all alike, to deprive us of all of our democratic liberties," they said in a formal statement. "As an instrument of national policy, war settles no issues in the moral realm, is futile in the political, wasteful and suicidal in the economic, and in the religious a denial of God and of the life and teaching of His Son.

"We profoundly believe that the end forever inheres within the means! that the means employed by war are essentially evil; that the good needs no aid of that evil to establish its ultimate victory; that love needs no abetting by hate; that God has not come to such a pass as to require violence for the realization of any ideal that He inspires.

"We believe that the time has come when arbitrament by war must be abolished, as ancient modes of slavery and codes of dueling were abolished; that it is an out-moded survival of barbarism and superstition, and that the chain of evil which holds us to it, with all its new and vicious terrors, can and must be broken where we are.

Those are honestly spoken words and they are echoed in many hearts. But they leave untold the story of how they may

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

BRASS RING TO ADMIRAL TAUSSIG

WASHINGTON—At Annapolis, where a midshipman put plebes through a constant cross-fire of hazing, one of the stock questions fired at a youngster is: "Mr. Jones, what did Admiral Taussig say?"

And the first-year man clicks his heels and snaps back the traditional Annapolis answer: "Sir, we are now ready!"

This refers not to Rear Admiral Joseph K. Taussig's recent and startling prediction that war between the United States and Japan was inevitable, but to a statement he made to the British during the World War which has become a naval classic.

Taussig was in command of a destroyer squadron which arrived in Ireland shortly after the United States entered the war. Upon his arrival, the British asked how soon his ships could proceed to the North Sea for submarine duty. Taussig and his men had just crossed a stormy Atlantic, and the British expected they would require at least a week to get shipshape. But Taussig's reply was approximately the one now quoted by Annapolis plebes. (Actually he said he would need 24 hours to take on oil and fresh water.)

This gives one sidelight on the man who astounded the American public with his frankness in predicted war with Japan.

REPUBLICAN AMMUNITION

That prediction has now been discussed and editorialized from coast to coast and from beer-parlor to parlor. But there are several backstage factors which have not been discussed except in hush-hush groups of naval officers when they get together.

One of these is the mysterious manner in which Admiral Taussig happened to be called to testify before the Senate Naval Affairs Committee.

The other is that no love has been lost between the President and Admiral Taussig. This dates back to a row they had when Roosevelt was Assistant Secretary of the Navy. So there is some suspicion—perhaps unjustified—that Taussig might have made his belligerent statement just at a time when it was sure to win votes for the Republicans.

Regarding the first of these, it is not generally known that Admiral Taussig's name was suggested to the Senate committee by vigorous peace critics of the President, specifically by Mauritz Hallgren. He acted for the National Peace Conference, led by Oswald Garrison Villard, Frederick Libby and Dorothy Detzer.

Furthermore, the Senate Naval Affairs Committee got the impression from peace leaders that the Admiral's testimony would be unfriendly to the Administration.

If they expected Taussig to rap his big Navy program, however, they were 100 percent mistaken. He was vigorously for it. But if they wanted to pin a belligerent Far Eastern policy on Roosevelt, they got their wish. For undoubtedly Taussig's prediction of war with Japan plays into Republican hands.

be made effective, now, in any of the countries at war or threatened by war. Turning the other cheek may be the ultimate answer, but will the world accept that method in this generation?

Remember a quaint document called the "Kellogg Pact" in which all the nations agreed never to fight any more?

More and more, Europe drifts into a state which a certain U. S. Senator is said to call "choss", but which old-fashioned people pronounce "kay-os."

How Body Responds to Coffee Drinking

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE CONTROVERSY as to whether coffee is beneficial or harmful cannot be settled dogmatically. The active ingredient of coffee, caffeine, is a drug which is used in medicine for definite purposes. It is a heart stimulant. It is useful in shock and the depression following surgical operations.

Its fundamental action is probably to increase the amount of blood put out by the heart, and it is this increased blood flow alone which, going through the brain, induces mental stimulation. Caffeine does not harm the kidneys, al-

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

though it is often thought by those who do not study carefully that the increased output of urine is harmful. The increased output of urine is due simply to the increase of blood flow through the kidneys. On the heart muscle, caffeine has a very beneficial action because it increases the nutrition of the heart muscle. For this reason it should be advocated as a regular beverage in moderate quantities for middle-aged people.

Muscular Response Measured

Muscular response to coffee has been measured. It was found in normal young men, whose reaction to a given stimulus was measured beforehand, that after drinking coffee their reactions were two to six per cent more rapid.

Naturally for any drug, it must be said that if used immoderately, the effect is bad. Just what constitutes immoderate intake is a question of temperament. People are not all made alike. Some have stable nervous systems; some are of the thick-skinned variety; others are temperamental, unstable, with nerves set on a hair trigger. For the last class, coffee has no proper use.

It may be put down as axiomatic that if coffee makes you nervous it is not good for you. Coffee should certainly not be given to children below the age of 10 years and I would even say 15 years. They do not need the stimulation. Their hearts and brains are young and active and coffee would induce a false need for stimulation.

In High Blood Pressure

High blood pressure is no contraindication of coffee, according to Doctor Stieglitz. He believes that patients with high blood pressure should be allowed coffee in the morning if they are used to it, although he forbids its use in the afternoon or evening.

Occasionally one finds a person with an irritable heart who gets palpitation from the use of coffee. Here, again, common sense would contraindicate its use.

Coffee can be decaffeinated. The decaffeinated coffee contains a very small percentage of caffeine, so small as to be negligible. For people who are habituated to the taste and smell of a cup of coffee, these beverages can be recommended.

At the end of the room, on a stage that had already been contrived there with the help of gardeners and other servants, Gayle Dixon slaved at the stage business of making an entrance. It was not easy.

The room was almost entirely bare, save for the stage and its makeshift properties and the box on which Bill sat. Even so, it was an impressive room. It dated back to the bustle-and-buggy era, but a few touches of remodeling had linked it a bit with a more modern day. The result was odd, but satisfactory on the whole. Windows were taller than two men, and as wide as doors, and impressively draped. Glass dangles swung on chandeliers so as to make rainbow glints like the tiny prisms they were. The floor was an oaken mirror; Bill had a boyish urge to skate there.

By sliding back some doors that disappeared into walls, the size of this already large room could be doubled, and Mr. Weems had said that the twin halls used to constitute the ballroom for the Merrifield mansion years before, when there was life and gaiety at The Oaks.

"That's more like it," Bill was saying, presently. "Say, Gayle, you learn quickly, even if you don't have any experience at acting."

"Thank you. Maybe it's your expert directing."

"No. An actor either has the spark, or hasn't it. You have. I'd like to try some of the more difficult scenes also."

They kept at it apace, while the other six girls theoretically studied on a sunny verandah. The six had been given copies of the play and were told to read it this morning, preparatory to tryouts later in the day, but if they spent a deal of the time in gossiping about their extraordinary "work" here at The Oaks, surely nobody could blame them.

Meanwhile, too, Jeremy Tucker had kept out of sight. In truth, that young gentleman had sat up rather late last night, even after Bill and Gayle had retired. He had been secretly elated at the little dinner party given for him. It was the first party in his honor that he could remember. He hadn't known how to conduct himself. He felt that he must have made a poor impression on people who could have been his friends. He did a great deal of thinking about it.

Today he somehow managed to neglect entirely his routine of archeological study. He had meant to delve farther into reports on findings in pre-historic mounds of Yucatan. But his mind wandered—a most unusual circumstance for him. Presently he probed through his grandfather's fine sets of encyclopedias and read such odd topics as "Conversation," "Etiquette," "The Art of Oratory," "Personality Development." He did a little ashamed for this wasting time.

Then, too, there had been a muffled pounding and nailing down stairs this morning, and that aroused his curiosity. He decided all at once to take a recess and clarify his mind by going down to see if some house repairs were going on.

The door to the main floor reception room was so massive that it echoed in a heraldic "PLOOMP!" when he suddenly opened it. But the view it revealed, not the noise, instantly startled him.

Yonder on a new platform stood Gayle Dixon, exquisitely beautiful this morning, being kissed in lingering ardor by that fellow, Bill. "Oh! Oh, I say!" Somehow Jeremy was both embarrassed and indignant.

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a snappy morning, but a glorious one. Noted that wrens continue shunning the bird house that I built with much pride. Thought any bird would be glad to have it for a domicile, but something is wrong. They won't even look at it. Well, it looks pretty there atop the rose trellis.

No one would have guessed the fact, but Bill Kochheiser has taken to funeral orating. I would have appreciated being present when Bill raved back and delivered those weighty words. Seems as though his neighborhood's pet squirrel met with a traffic accident. His body was found in the street. Children gathered and decided that a funeral must be held. All arrangements were completed except the "preacher." About that time Bill appeared on the scene and was pressed into service. Glad it was Bill and not me, for I haven't the vaguest idea of what could or should be said over the body of a squirrel except, "Yes, I'll take a second helping."

All his friends laughed when Dick Simkins bought that fine new casting rod and reel a few days ago. But Dick with nonchalance went to the banks of Darby Creek and cast into the waters. Then he yanked out a channel cat that weighed two and one-half pounds.

Ministers hereabouts have their work cut out for them over this week end, helping pray away the cussing sins of many of their church members. Or maybe it isn't too much of a sin to cuss out Adolph and his cohorts.

In the evening did hear the President take some hide off the Germans and heard with pleasure his promise that this nation will not be taken unaware or unprepared, that we will arm to meet any emergency. I am in favor of that, the entire distance. With that insane paper hanger riding high in Europe there is no telling the next direction of his ambition. If Adolph ever decides to come over here I would regard it as the highest possible honor to be a member of the reception committee, and do everything possible to assure his extreme discomfort. I don't like that chap at all, at all. Nor does anyone else I have talked to recently.

Presby-Weds Gather For Dinner, Program Meeting

Logan Elm Grangers
Entertain Friday
Evening

The social room of the First Presbyterian Church was the scene of a delightful dinner meeting Friday when the Presby-Weds of the church gathered for the May session. The cooperative dinner was served at long tables centered with attractive arrangements of violets and lilies-of-the-valley to 36 members and guests. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey preceding the serving.

A short business session followed, Franklin Crites, class president, presiding.

Hosts for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Howell, Miss Virginia Marion and Miss Kathryn Bockert. Mr. Howell presented the program, the first number being a splendid one act play concerning several old-maids, with the members of Logan Elm Grange included in the cast. The story unfolds as the 'old-maids' take action to secure husbands, names of some of Circleville's most promising bachelors being discussed.

As the play progressed, the various members of the cast planned to ask the legislature to put a tax on bachelors and to remove the cosmetic tax, so that matrimony would be inevitable.

The 'old-maids' of the play were Mrs. Charles Dresbach, Mrs. Ottis Leist, Mrs. Marvin Dreisbach, Mrs. Eva Dreisbach, Mrs. Andrew Warner, Mrs. C. O. Kerns, Mrs. John Kerns, Mrs. Charles Mowery, and Miss Ruth McKenzie. Miss McKenzie wrote the words and music of the song used in the play and also accompanied the singers at the piano.

The stage for the occasion was beautifully decorated with lilacs and other spring flowers.

Concluding the program was a group of readings, by Mrs. Blanche Motschman, including "Towser Shall be Tied Tonight," a parody on "The Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight." She then was featured as a society reporter talking over the radio from a dining room, the scene being laid in the church dining room with the Presby-Weds and their guests as subjects of discussion.

Their business affiliations, professions and personal habits were the topics of the broadcast, filled with humor and friendly satire.

A social session ensued and various members of the group enjoyed the game of ping-pong.

For the June meeting, the Presby-Weds will be host to members of the Westminster Bible Class of the church. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Price and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bell are members of the social committee for this session.

Parent-Teacher Association when the organization met Friday in the school auditorium. Her panel of officers for the coming year will include Mrs. Henry Streitenberger, vice president; Mrs. Austin Dowden, secretary, and Mrs. George Mallet, treasurer. The slate was presented by Mrs. Dowden, chairman of the nominating committee.

The unusually interesting program was the annual spring music festival arranged by Mrs. Hamilton, music supervisor of the school.

The Toy Band presented the first number, the members of the band being from the first four grades of the school. Piano solos were played by Katherine Todd, Olive Cross, Mary Edler, Elsie Palmer, Richard McAbee, Jean Speakman, Carl Cupp, Phyllis McDonald and Paul Green. Elizabeth Downing played a violin solo, followed by a violin and guitar duet by Miss Downing and Donald Streitenberger. Recitations were presented by Nelson Cupp, Robert Green and Gerald Reynolds. Patsy Metzger and June Speakman were heard in a vocal duet. Folk dancing and group singing were interspersed in the program numbers.

The last number featured a song by pupils of grades 5-8, the selection being "Mother Machree" with Miss Downing at the piano. This was a special tribute to Mothers' Day.

During the business meeting in charge of Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, president, plans for the commencement program were discussed. The eighth grade play will be presented in the school auditorium May 29, with the graduating exercises set for Friday, May 31. The last day of school basket dinner will be June 3.

Merry-Makers' Club
Mrs. Minnie Heise was awarded the traveling gift when the Merry-Makers' Club of the Order of the Eastern Star met in the Red room, Masonic Temple, for the regular session.

A delightful lunch was served at the close of the informal afternoon passed in sewing quilt blocks. Mrs. Sam Morris, Mrs. Boyd Trout and Mrs. O. J. Towers were hostesses.

The next meeting will be May 31 in the Red room, with Mrs. George Valentine as hostess. Her assistants will be announced later.

OTTERBEIN GUILD
The Otterbein Guild of the United Brethren Church will meet at the home of Miss Polly Jane Kerns, East Union Street, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

Democratic Women's Club
Mrs. Orion King will head the Pickaway County Democratic Women's Club for the coming year, her election following the report of the nominating committee Friday at the meeting in the home of Mrs. Clark K. Hunsicker, West Union Street. Others elected were Mrs. Marvin Rhoades, first vice president; Mrs. George LeMay, second vice president; Mrs. T. B. Gephart, treasurer; Mrs. A. L. Wilder, recording secretary; Mrs. Hunsicker, corresponding secretary.

Miss Nelle Osterle, president, was in charge of the meeting and received the names of the new officers from the committee which included Mrs. King, Mrs. Hunsicker and Miss Emily D. Yates.

Mrs. R. P. Reid, secretary, read the reports of the last two meetings and Mrs. Gephart, treasurer, submitted her report.

The speaker of the evening, Mrs. Marguerite McCollum of Granville, was unable to be present because of illness. The evening was devoted to business discussions interspersed with several violin solos by Miss Jean Noecker of Walnut Township, Miss Elizabeth Rehner of the same community playing her accompaniments.

The spring meeting of the Ohio State Federations of Democratic Women's Clubs was announced for May 24-25 at Toledo. Mrs. Hunsicker and Mrs. Hulse Hays, members of the club, will attend.

Presbyterian Club
The Women's Social Club of the Presbyterian Church will meet Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the social room. The men of the church will be entertained at this time.

Mr. Mrs. Boyer Hosts
Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Boyer of Williamsport were hosts at a delightful dinner Friday at 6:30 p. m. their guests including the public school faculty and a few additional guests. Mr. Boyer is school superintendent.

Bouquets of spirea and tulips centered the table in the dining room where the dinner was served buffet style. Small vases of the same flowers were on the card tables in the living room where the guests were seated.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth List and son, Donald,

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rose, Mrs. Ida Ware, Mrs. Paul West, Miss Helen West, Miss Maribelle Ater, Miss Margaret Smith, Miss Mary McCollister, Miss Laura McGhee and James Diley.

Today's Garden-Graph

Use of Brick Edgings for Flower Beds

Flower beds frequently require edging to keep the loose soil from being washed by rains on to the adjoining walk or lawn area.

Brick edgings are splendid for this purpose when they are in harmony with the architecture of the house.

Brick edgings can be set into the ground endways, in an upright position, as shown in today's Garden-Graph, or they can be set on end, slantwise. No matter which way they are placed it is important to sink them into the ground at least half of their length.

The straight up-ended position of the bricks is to be preferred to setting them on a 45-degree angle, for this latter method presents sharp corners for the gardener's tools to chip off. These sharp corners are often uncomfortable for the person working in adjoining flower beds, for such work usually is done in a kneeling position.

Members of the state executive board, plan to attend.

Miss Osterle turned the meeting to Mrs. King after thanking the members for past cooperation.

Mrs. King announced that she would name her new committees, embracing women from all sections of the county, in a short time. She also named a committee to arrange for a delegation to attend the state convention, the members including Mrs. Hays, Mrs. Hunsicker, Mrs. George E. Gerhardt, Mrs. Florence Campbell and the club president.

Candidates for the coming primary election and wives of candidates who were present were introduced and spoke briefly.

The club members then listened to the radio address of President Roosevelt, after which the hostess, assisted by Miss Margaret Hunsicker, served light refreshments.

The next session will be June 14 when reports of the convention will be given, and the heads of the various departments will report.

Parent-Teacher Association when the organization met Friday in the school auditorium. Her panel of officers for the coming year will include Mrs. Henry Streitenberger, vice president; Mrs. Austin Dowden, secretary, and Mrs. George Mallett, treasurer. The slate was presented by Mrs. Dowden, chairman of the nominating committee.

The unusually interesting program was the annual spring music festival arranged by Mrs. Hamilton, music supervisor of the school.

The Toy Band presented the first number, the members of the band being from the first four grades of the school. Piano solos were played by Katherine Todd, Olive Cross, Mary Edler, Elsie Palmer, Richard McAbee, Jean Speakman, Carl Cupp, Phyllis McDonald and Paul Green. Elizabeth Downing played a violin solo, followed by a violin and guitar duet by Miss Downing and Donald Streitenberger. Recitations were presented by Nelson Cupp, Robert Green and Gerald Reynolds. Patsy Metzger and June Speakman were heard in a vocal duet. Folk dancing and group singing were interspersed in the program numbers.

The last number featured a song by pupils of grades 5-8, the selection being "Mother Machree" with Miss Downing at the piano. This was a special tribute for Mothers' Day.

During the business meeting in charge of Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, president, plans for the commencement program were discussed. The eighth grade play will be presented in the school auditorium May 29, with the graduating exercises set for Friday, May 31. The last day of school basket dinner will be June 3.

Merry-Makers' Club

Mrs. Minnie Heise was awarded the traveling gift when the Merry-Makers' Club of the Order of the Eastern Star met in the Red room, Masonic Temple, for the regular session.

A delightful lunch was served at the close of the informal afternoon passed in sewing quilt blocks. Mrs. Sam Morris, Mrs. Boyd Trout and Mrs. O. J. Towers were hostesses.

The next meeting will be May 31 in the Red room, with Mrs. George Valentine as hostess. Her assistants will be announced later.

Otterbein Guild

The Otterbein Guild of the United Brethren Church will meet at the home of Miss Polly Jane Kerns, East Union Street, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

Democratic Women's Club

Mrs. Orion King will head the Pickaway County Democratic Women's Club for the coming year, her election following the report of the nominating committee Friday at the meeting in the home of Mrs. Clark K. Hunsicker, West Union Street. Others elected were Mrs. Marvin Rhoades, first vice president; Mrs. George LeMay, second vice president; Mrs. T. B. Gephart, treasurer; Mrs. A. L. Wilder, recording secretary; Mrs. Hunsicker, corresponding secretary.

Miss Nelle Oesterle, president, was in charge of the meeting and received the names of the new officers from the committee which included Mrs. King, Mrs. Hunsicker and Miss Emily D. Yates.

Mrs. R. P. Reid, secretary, read the reports of the last two meetings and Mrs. Gephart, treasurer, submitted her report.

The speaker of the evening, Mrs. Marguerite McCollum of Granville, was unable to be present because of illness. The evening was devoted to business discussions interspersed with several violin solos by Miss Jean Noecker of Walnut Township, Miss Elizabeth Reber of the same community playing her accompaniments.

The spring meeting of the Ohio State Federations of Democratic Women's Clubs was announced for May 24-25 at Toledo. Mrs. Hunsicker and Mrs. Hulise Hays, members of the state executive board, plan to attend.

Miss Oesterle turned the meeting to Mrs. King after thanking the members for past cooperation.

Mrs. King announced that she would name her new committees, embracing women from all sections of the county, in a short time. She also named a committee to arrange for a delegation to attend the state convention, the members including Mrs. Hays, Mrs. Hunsicker, Mrs. George E. Gerhardt, Mrs. Florence Campbell and the club president.

Candidates for the coming primary election and wives of candidates who were present were introduced and spoke briefly.

The club members then listened to the radio address of President Roosevelt, after which the hostess, assisted by Miss Margaret Hunsicker, served light refreshments.

The next session will be June 14 when reports of the convention will be given, and the heads of the various departments will report.

Tuxis Club

The Tuxis Club of the Presbyterian Church will elect officers for the coming year during the business meeting Thursday at 8:30 p. m. in the social room of the church.

Presbyterian Club

The Women's Social Club of the Presbyterian Church will meet Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the social room. The men of the church will be entertained at this time.

Mr. Mrs. Boyer Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Boyer of Williamsport were hosts at a delightful dinner Friday at 6:30 p. m. their guests including the public school faculty and a few additional guests. Mr. Boyer is school superintendent.

Bouquets of spirea and tulips centered the table in the dining room where the dinner was served buffet style. Small vases of the same flowers were on the card tables in the living room where the guests were seated.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth List and son, Donald,

Today's Garden-Graph

Use of Brick Edgings for Flower Beds

Flower beds frequently require edging to keep the loose soil from being washed by rains on to the adjoining walk or lawn area. Brick edgings are splendid for this purpose when they are in harmony with the architecture of the house.

Brick edgings can be set into the ground endways, in an upright position, as shown in today's Garden-Graph, or they can be set on end, slantwise. No matter which way they are placed it is important to sink them into the ground at least half of their length.

The straight up-ended position of the bricks is to be preferred to setting them on a 45-degree angle, for this latter method presents sharp corners for the gardener's tools to chip off. These sharp corners are often uncomfortable for the person working in adjoining flower beds, for such work usually is done in a kneeling position.

ANNUAL STAFFS FINISH YEARBOOK

Both annual staffs were busy this week checking copy which has returned from the printers. The color dummy has returned, and the editorial staff did the final checking before it was printed. This year's annual will be printed in two colors of ink, du-bonnet and black.

After the color dummy and the printed copy were approved, Tuesday, after school, Miss Margaret Mattinson, adviser, and Hulise Hays, Jr., business manager, returned them to the Oxford Printing Company, Oxford, Ohio. In the meanwhile, all staff members who were not occupied with play practice were busy checking advertising copy and returning it to the business men for approval.

The staff members have decided upon a heavy, du-bonnet buckeye paper cover. It has a plastic binding of the same color. Next week, the printer will submit sample covers with the title in gold and silver lettering. The staff will decide then what lettering they will use.

CHS MUSICIANS PLAY FOR EVENT

Members of the high school orchestra, under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein, were on deck for both presentations of the Senior class play, "What a Life."

The orchestra presented the following selections between acts: The Commander, march, Brockton Let's Go, march, Woods Gypsy Festival, overture, Hayes March of the Mighty, Debert Puckett played a cornet solo, "Glen Eden" by Charles Storm. His accompanist was Ruth Blum.

Monday, May 20, the orchestra will play for commencement exercises at Jackson Township.

J. BECK TAKES OFFICE

CHS PUPILS SEE PARTS OF PLAY

One might say that C. H. S. pupils "saw themselves as others see them" when they witnessed the preview of the senior class play, "What a Life," in assembly Wednesday.

This play concerned the adventures of high school students, particularly Henry Aldrich, the well-known radio character. The entire action of the play occurred in the principal's office of Central High School.

Before the preview was given, Principal J. Wray Henry presented certificates to six pupils who placed among the first ten in the scholarship exams in Columbus last Saturday. These receiving awards were Dorothy Cook, fifth in English 10; Marshall Cupp, fourth in bookkeeping; Mary Lutz, tenth in English 12; and Mary Adele Snider, sixth in French I.

Four other pupils will receive certificates later. They are Marvin Armstrong, second in shorthand II; Helen Beck, second in shorthand I; Barbara Johnson, fifth in shorthand II; and Norma Wolfe, fifth in shorthand I.

Twenty-five out of thirty-five pupils ranked among the first twenty, while those named above were among the first ten.

JUNIOR RESERVE PLANS PROGRAM

Continuing their plans for an assembly program, the Junior Girl Reserves have decided to present two pantomimes, a monologue and individual talent from the club. This program will be presented May 23 at 9:30.

The casts for the pantomimes have not as yet been completed. However, various members of the class have been trying out for parts.

Miriam Brown, Rosemary Brown and Martha Kilian volunteered to read the pantomimes.

JENKINS CLUBS CHAMPION OUT

Lou Ambers Suffers First Kayo Of His Career In New York Ring

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 11—Texas Lew Jenkins, a lambasting cowboy from the famed Sweetwater, was the world's lightweight champion today after blasting galling Lou Ambers into oblivion in Madison Square Garden Friday night. The knockout came in the third round after one minute and 29 seconds of battling.

The Herkimer, N. Y. Hurricane was downed in the first and second rounds and was saved from further punishment in the third when Referee Billy Kavanaugh stopped hostilities. Jenkins was socking him with both hands in his own corner when the official acted.

The knockout was the first suffered by Ambers in his long career.

TWO PITCHERS SENT TO BIRDS

Brecheen, Dickson Become Columbus Pitchers; Barrett Loses

COLUMBUS, May 11—Harry Brecheen and Murray Dickson, two moundsmen reported to have better than average ability, were enroute today to join the Columbus Red Birds, occupying the coal hole in the American Association. The former is a southpaw and the latter an orthodox hurler.

Both spent most of the last season with Houston in the Texas League, Brecheen winning 18 and Dickson 22 games.

The Red Birds lost to Minneapolis Friday, 5-4, when Red Barrett, although possessing a world of stuff, was too wild to hold the Millers safely in hand.

Bimelech Carries Most Money In Pimlico Race

BALTIMORE, May 11 — Although Gallahadion, Kentucky Derby winner of a week ago, will be one of the competitors, smart money here today was being placed on Colonel E. R. Bradley's Bimelech, the highly-favored colt that ran into second place at Churchill Downs. The event today was the annual Pimlico Preakness, the race observing its golden jubilee celebration this year.

Gallahadion, big bay son of Sir Gallahad 3rd-Countess Time, will be trying for his second leg on the three-year-old crown and to show that his victorious Derby effort was no fluke.

Bimelech, on the other hand, will be out for revenge on the hard-running colt that caught him in the Derby's long home stretch and flicked a pair of driving heels in his face at the finish. Until then, Bimelech never had been defeated.

Bimelech Is 8-5

Probable odds showed Bimelech an 8-to-5 favorite, still regarded as tops in the three-year-old division. Odds of 6-to-1 were quoted on Gallahadion.

Also named for the mile-and-three-sixteenths Preakness were Arnold Hanger's Dit, C. S. Howard's Midland, W. L. Brann's Pictor, Tower Stable's Royal Man—all defeated in the Derby—and Milledale Stable's Andy K., Mrs. Anthony Pelletier's Sun Pharos and Mrs. George D. Widener's Your Chance.

The probable overnight line placed Your Chance at odds of 4 to 1, next to Bimelech on the basis of his easy victory in the Survivor Stakes here last Tuesday. Dit, third in the Derby, was placed at 6 to 1, along with Gallahadion, while Midland, fourth in the Derby, was considered an 8-to-1 shot.

Pictor, last in the Derby, and Royal Man, next to last were quoted at 20 to 1. The latter two will be coupled as an entry in the betting.

Sun Pharos on Rail

Sun Pharos drew the No. 1 post position on the inside rail. Placed in order were Gallahadion, Dit, Andy K., Bimelech, Pictor, Midland, Royal Man, and Your Chance.

The track was fast today and the forecast for tomorrow was for cloudy and cool weather.

If all nine start the gross value of the Preakness will be $73,365. The value of the winner, if it is an original nominee, will be $53,230, if a supplementary entry, $51,230.

Maryland Jockey Club officials predicted a crowd of at least 40,000. Post time for the Preakness, sixth race, will be 4:55 p. m. (Circleville Time).

Bowling News

A Circleville bowling team was defeated by 221 pins Friday evening when it went to Chillicothe to meet the 20th Century Recreation team. The scores were 2,748 to 2,527.

C. C. Watts was the only Circleville kegger to hit near his normal figure, 555 being his total. All members of the Chillicothe crew were above the 500-mark, 540 being the low score for the victorious team.

REDS TO PITCH YOUNG GENE IN ST. LOUIS FRAY

Thompson To Oppose Cooper Or Davis; Berger Dropped By Cincinnati

YANKS LOSE ANOTHER

Red Sox Score In Tenth Frame; Pittsburgh Wins From Chicago

By International News Service
Gene Thompson, first string youngster of the Cincinnati Ball Club, was to take the mound Saturday afternoon in St. Louis in an effort to keep the Redlegs close on the heels of the high flying Brooklyn Dodgers. Thompson has done quite well in his early start and is being counted as No. 3 pitcher in the staff that also includes Buck Walters and Paul Derringer.

Thompson's foe will likely be either Morton Cooper or Curt Davis, both of whom have been fairly effective against the Reds. Manager Bill McKechnie today announced the unconditional release of Wally Berger, veteran outfielder.

Berger, who came to Boston from Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League in 1930, has been a member of the Redlegs since June 6, 1938, when he came here from the New York Giants in exchange for Second Baseman Alex Kampouris, now with Newark of the International League.

Berger long had been recognized as one of the leading batters in the National League, his ten-year mark being an even 300. He participated in 115 games with New York and the Reds in 1938 and batted .298.

Berger, born at Chicago October 10, 1905, participated in two World Series — with the Reds last year and the Giants in 1938. He also was a member of the three National League all-star teams.

Pink Ticket Necessary
Berger is one of the most popular players in the big leagues and the Redlegs chiefs did not relish the idea of letting him go, but they will have to cut down their roster by next Wednesday, and Wally drew the "pink ticket."

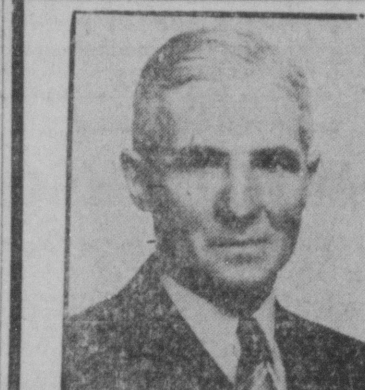

On other fronts, another nail was driven into the New York Yankees' coffin when Boston ran a run across the plate in the top half of the tenth to sink the Yankees, 3-2.

The Dodgers lost a half game of their lead over the Redlegs when Harry Gumbert of the Giants knocked them off in a 7-2 contest. Whitlow Wyatt was treated roughly by the Giants who combed him for three runs in the first canto. Two first inning runs were all the Brooks could get off Gumbert.

Pittsburgh's Pirates came out of their slump by turning back the Cubs, 8-3, with Mace Brown on the hurling end of the victory. Lee was the loser.

Buck Newsom knocked off the Chicago White Sox with a row of goose eggs, 3-0; Cleveland overcame a four run lead to thump the Browns, 9-4, and Bob Johnson drove in five runs as the Philadelphia Athletics won from Washington.

JENKINS CLUBS CHAMPION OUT

Lou Ambers Suffers First Kayo Of His Career in New York Ring

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 11—Texas Lew Jenkins, a lambasting cowboy from the famed Sweetwater, was the world's lightweight champion today after blasting gallant Lou Ambers into oblivion in Madison Square Garden Friday night. The knockout came in the third round after one minute and 29 seconds of battling.

The Herkimer, N. Y. Hurricane was downed in the first and second rounds and was saved from further punishment in the third when Referee Billy Kavanagh stopped hostilities. Jenkins was socking him with both hands in his own corner when the official acted.

The knockout was the first suffered by Ambers in his long career.

COLUMBUS, May 11—Harry Brecheen and Murray Dickson, two moundsmen reported to have better than average ability, were enroute today to join the Columbus Red Birds, occupying the coal hole in the American Association. The former is a southpaw and the latter an orthodox hurler.

Both spent most of the last season with Houston in the Texas League, Brecheen winning 18 and Dickson 22 games.

The Red Birds lost to Minneapolis Friday, 5-4, when Red Barrett, although possessing a world of stuff, was too wild to hold the Millers safely in hand.

Bimelech Carries Most Money In Pimlico Race

BALTIMORE, May 11 — Although Gallahadion, Kentucky Derby winner of a week ago, will be one of the competitors, smart money here today was being placed on Colonel E. R. Bradley's Bimelech, the highly-favored colt that ran into second place at Churchill Downs. The event today was the annual Pimlico Preakness, the race observing its golden jubilee celebration this year.

Gallahadion, big bay son of Sir Gallahad 3rd-Countess Time, will be trying for his second leg on the three-year-old crown and to show that his victorious Derby effort was no fluke.

County Awaits Primary Vote Next Tuesday

Many Contests, Especially On Democratic Side, Attract Interest; State Issues Vital; Polls Open At 6:30 A. M.

With candidates busy beating paths to doors of all homes of the community and hand-shaking continuing at a rapid pace, Circleville and Pickaway County, Saturday, were moving nearer Tuesday's primary election that promises to be one of the most interesting in recent years. Many candidates are in the field with most of the available offices finding competitors seeking favor.

The polls open at 6:30 a. m. and close 12 hours later. All precinct booths are well marked with American flags. Election board officials are urging that voters travel to the polls as early as possible so the usual last-minute congestion will be relieved. All board members have been instructed concerning their duties.

The issues of most interest in the state are for Democratic governor and Republican U. S. senator. The Democratic gubernatorial race took on added color Saturday when Arthur Limbach, Ohio Democratic party chairman, urged Ohioans to support George White, former governor, instead of ex-Governor Martin L. Davey. White has received support from many leaders in the last week and party chairmen believe that a definite trend is being shown toward White's banner. There are five other candidates in the race for the nomination.

The Republican senatorial race is a contest between Dudley White and Harold Burton of Norwalk and Cleveland, respectively. The former is carrying the support of most of the state Republican organization, but Burton, Cleveland mayor, has many followers, too.

Other state issues are of more or less interest.

The county ticket, naturally, is the one closest home and the one which will draw hundreds of persons of both parties to the polls Tuesday. Democrats have contests in races for commissioner, clerk of courts, sheriff, recorder, treasurer and engineer, while Republicans of the county have a contest for commissioner, three seeking two positions.

The congressional race is attracting much attention, too, and so is that for the state senate, the district covering Pickaway and Franklin Counties.

The only special issue at stake is a bond issue for a waterworks scheduled at New Holland.

Forty-six absentee voters were reported in Pickaway County by Claude Kraft, clerk of the board of elections.

Following is the complete list of candidates to be voted on by Circleville and Pickaway Countians:

For Judge of the Court of Appeals Verner E. Metcalf

The candidacy of VERNER E. METCALF for the Republican nomination for Judge of the Court of Appeals is unanimously endorsed by the Bar Association, the Republican Executive and Central Committees, and the Young Republican Club of his home county.

He is qualified and worthy of your support. We urge you to vote for Verner E. Metcalf

Metcalf Committee for Court of Appeals, Wilbur D. Jones, Secretary, Marietta, Ohio

Court of Appeals Candidate

Judicial elections will hold more than usual interest for Washington County voters this year. . . . For the first time in many years, so far as we recall, our county has an active candidate for judge of the fourth district Court of Appeals.

Former Senator Verner E. Metcalf's candidacy for judge of the Court of Appeals is pleasing to many people in the fifteen counties of the district, and particularly in his home county. He has qualifications for the position that are based on training and experience, and have been demonstrated repeatedly by the service he has given in public office. His recognized ability is supplemented by independence of thought and action that would make him a strong man on the bench. His election would also be a recognition of Washington County to which it is entitled.

Mr. Metcalf was a member of the Marietta school board for ten years. He was prosecuting attorney of Washington County for two terms and gave a capable, aggressive and satisfactory administration of that office. He was state senator from the Ninth-Fourteenth district for two terms. He made his mark quickly in the Senate, became Republican floor leader and was the spark plug of the "legal graft" investigation that resulted in correction of many abuses in our state government. He is now chairman of the board of review of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

His qualifications for the bench and his state-wide reputation make him a strong candidate.
